Tuition fees for international students and second degrees

The amendment of the Baden-Württemberg Tuition Fees Act (“Landeshochschulgebüh-rengesetz”) came into force on 17 May 2017. The law provides that international students will have to pay 1,500 euros per semester, of which 300 euros will be retained by universities. Students doing a second degree will have to pay 650 euros per semester. Both fees will only be payable by students starting a new degree from winter semester 2017/18. EU and EEC nationals and doctoral students will be exempt from the tuition fees for international students. There will be several other exemptions. Heidelberg University is currently working on by-laws to specify the exemptions.

New Human Resources System for Heidelberg University

The Human Resources Division together with the University Computing Centre will roll out a new human resources software. The software is expected to go live by the start of July.
The old software does not meet the current technical and data protection requirements.
The prospective system is already successfully in use at other universities in Baden-Württemberg. As all members of the Human Resources Division need to be involved in the transition, their availability for HR issues will be limited during the transitional period.
Thank you for your understanding.

ERC opens call for Advanced Grants 2017

Experienced researchers with outstanding scientific achievements over the past 10 years may apply for ERC Advanced Grants. The budget is usually 2.5 million euros per project, in exceptional cases it may be up 3.5 million euros. Projects may run for up to five years.
The call budget is 567 million euros, corresponding to about 245 Advanced Grants. The deadline for proposals is 31 August 2017, 5 pm.

Individual Fellowships

MSCA Individual Fellowships (IF) are aimed at experienced researchers planning a stay at a research institution or non-academic host institution in another country. The deadline for proposals is 14 September 2017.

DFG funding opportunities for refugees

The German Research Foundation (DFG) is inviting the leaders of DFG projects and universities to take advantage of its funding opportunities available for scientists and academics who had fled their home countries. In December 2015, the DFG made funding options available. In all general research funding programmes offered by the DFG, supplemental proposals can be submitted for refugees and researchers at risk who have already completed a degree programme. Funding is available for individuals with a residence status in the context of an asylum-granting procedure that confirms a recognised threat. Supplemental proposals can be submitted for funding which allows refugees to be integrated in a project, especially guest funding, the Mercator module and staff posts. Proposals can be submitted informally at any time and should not exceed five pages (not including CV and bibliography).

Stays of visiting scientists during research projects

In third-party funded research projects, a funding provider may authorize allocating funds for expense allowances (travel and accommodation costs, daily allowance) related to the stay of a visiting scientist at Heidelberg University. Such expense allowances can also be paid from unallocated funds (e.g. overheads) and budgetary funds. To satisfy the requirements of the Budget Regulation (LHO) of Baden-Württemberg, payment orders need to be accompanied by a supporting document. The new form for stays of visiting scientists serves as a supporting document. Please attach this form to the payment order from now on.
